And Your Journey Begins...

Guys, if you want to be able to approach, pick up, attract, seduce any of the sexiest hottest women of your choice, just follow the following techniques...

Have A Game Plan...

Let me be the first to say that most guys just wing it.

They have absolutely no game plan whatsoever.

There are some basic things that you need to know in order to be successful with women. There are situations that will arise that you need to know how to handle. There are also things you need to know in order to prevent certain things from happening.

Every man needs a starting point and a foundation from which to build upon. You have to ask yourself what kind of person you are trying to be in addition to the question of what type of success are you trying to achieve with women.

You have to decide that you'll do whatever is necessary to get a handle on your dating life.

You also have to be willing to rid yourself of any old ineffective habits and allow yourself the option of trying new things that will probably go against many belief patterns that you now may currently possess.

One question you have to ask yourself is "Do you care what others think?"

Remember you can't do crazy things if you do. Another required skill will be learning to be indifferent and not care about any particular outcome.

Having a game plan gives you a blueprint to follow, a gauge to see when you're off course and a map to find your way back.

It helps stabilize you as well as gives what you're doing structure, which the lack of can be as detrimental to the best laid plans as smoking crack and trying to go to sleep.

It just won't work.

It gives you a plan of attack as well as a defensive position.

Have you ever noticed in "War, Love and Politics", things usually go to the aggressor who has a plan.

When you have a game plan, you have purpose.

Women can tell a man with a purpose in life a mile away. They also find a man that is focused and knows what he wants very sexy.

Stop Looking For The Perfect Pick-up Line...

Just be a natural; it's the rare invisible ninja art.

So many people are teaching essentially the art of 'tricking her' into bed.

I always knew there was something amiss with this, so I never got into it too much. Instead, I've had natural success with women from over two dozen countries (and the U.S. of course!) to date by just being a natural.

Yes, and that includes when I didn't even know their language.

The ability to attract and have success with women is a natural function. Look, they want sex just as much as we men do but in a different way. They theoretically even have to want it as much, or the natural balance would be thrown off and we wouldn't be here today.

It just is different when it comes to women.

They're more turned on by a guy's energy than his looks alone.

Plus they usually need to be 'warmed up' instead of having an instant hog wild sex desire for you.

It's about how you are and how you communicate with her that really turns her on and opens your pathway; it's about your level of respect for yourself AND your unspoken respect for her and her body.

Learning pick up lines implies some quick fix or magic trick.

In fact, the whole seduction community is operating out of what I call the current social 'forced reality'.

It's simply a by-product where men adapt themselves to the current social reality instead of looking at the more powerful, timeless, unchanging natural process of attraction which still exists in her and in you.

It's just been covered up.

When you can operate out of a natural understanding and embrace it, you can talk baby talk to her or in another language and she'll be attracted to you, it doesn't matter.

When did we ever have to 'learn' how to be effective with women?

What if nature's species of animals had to be 'taught' how to be successful with women?

They'd move toward extinction.

The truth is, they KNOW how to mate and communicate with each other and humans do as well.

Nothing has changed.

It's just been covered up in the past few short decades.

The truth has been hidden, yet throughout complex social behavior patterns of women and your own confusing past experiences, underneath lies the simple truths of natural attraction which has nothing to do with pick up lines and even works more effectively today than ever before because of the massive amount of frustration created by the modern dating paradox (men are saying 'why does she treat me like this' and women are saying 'where are all the real men').

If you're coming from the wrong energy, it doesn't matter what you say to her because you'll 99% fail.

The power to succeed is not just in changing your inner game, it's in connecting yourself with a greater understanding and aligning your thoughts, beliefs and lifestyle around natural understanding and success instead of a superficial social fix.

Sure, those things can be nice spice on top of a true natural mindset (so rare today) and can then accelerate things faster, but when done on their own, the perfect 'line' can never be perfect or work everytime and everything else becomes 'technique based' (... think "well what do I say to her 'next'?") which leads to failure, rejection and massive inconsistency.

That's all a byproduct of the forced reality which consequently takes a LOT of game time and preparation in order to see still limited results by becoming a PUA (Pick Up Artist).

It's an unnatural path that I believe most men just don't feel is them nor something that they should have to do just in order to meet women or get laid because it doesn't seem right or natural.

So the answer?

It's in becoming a rare natural and ultimately adding value to women's lives but more importantly, living your life in harmony with universal principles (which gives you the massive leverage to make a big change and fast) and becoming who you really are as a man and not someone you aren't just to 'get something' from women.

Become A More Social, Interdependent Person...

The beauty of this is that it's aligned to being a natural man who women are attracted to without having any of the creepy vibe that comes with going out of your way to approach her or trying to 'get something' from her.

It starts off nice and natural when you're being just a social person.

Once you start communicating with her, you can take it from PG-13 to rated R if you feel she is responsive to you.

Being social and naturally communicative stems from wanting to add value out into the world and never depends on seeking someone else's approval because you have your boundaries but you can share a lot of things with people because that's what life is about.

Ever notice how the life of the party guy usually has women all around him?

Well, why can't that be you?

Maybe it already IS you on the inside but you just need to bring it outwards.

You've made people laugh before right?

You've had a great time with buddies before right?

Why not just break down all barriers and become more like that with all people... when you show who you are up front, it allows women to actually have something to go off of and be attracted to you... otherwise, how is she going to find out who you are unless you take a long, long time if you're really shy when you SHOULD be naturally talking with people.

Not just women out of a scarcity mentality, but being socially abundant knowing that you're going to meet interesting and great people that you can develop things further with.

In social environments and with a 'social' state of mind, you can easily get women's phone numbers after a short conversation if you want.

But I strongly recommend putting yourself in environments where it's acceptable for something like that to happen.

You can 'go out of your way' to get phone numbers on the streets of women but still it's creepy...they know where you're coming from and your chance of scoring with them that way is very little.

It's a waste of time, really.

I recommend practicing eye contact and saying to women in public but you can't sleep with every hottie that walks by on the street... put yourself in environments where people want to connect or where it's more socially 'ok' for her conscience.

Be in environments where you can still 'naturally' meet her even if it's an organized event.

This way, it's not as creepy to her, plus when you're a natural using the invisible art (and you really couldn't care either way what she says) it will be easy to make connections and get information to follow up.

Don't be the X-Rated guy and tell her you want to f her.... There's a time and place (like adult chat rooms) for that.

She wants to meet healthy, social men who are leading their own lives who she met 'naturally' and then 'things led from there' (of course you know where they'd lead).

Have her guessing what's next when you do get involved and don't be predictable or boring.

Becoming more of a social person in general is going to open doors up for you like you wouldn't believe.

It's all about making connections.

The more connections you make, the more women and options you're going to have.

Once you know cool people that are like you that you can add or exchange value to their lives with, they'll have other people (and women) who they can introduce you to.

It's just a roundabout circle that works in your favor, not to mention that it's healthy and normal.

Don't Smother The Girl...

This means don't be the pervert who follows her through the malls, shopping centers and school hallways or sits at her lunch table all period and doesn't say hardly a word but just hopes by being near her.

The same one who calls that night to talk on the phone for hours and get nowhere with her.

Then she turns around to her friends and says he's a loser.

Yes, you can guess what I did, I smothered her the next day by coming by at around 10am to hang out. We went inside her house and just stayed there and I pretty much killed it.

The moment I began to like her and wanted her more, the more she pulled away and found better things to do. She moved on and we weren't even friends.

That night I had stopped by, we both wanted each other pretty bad, but through my desperateness for her attraction, it quickly died out.

The lesson here is too many guys are waiting on the woman hand and foot.

If you reverse the roles and have her want you 24/7, it puts you in the position where you are in control.

My idea of control is not when you are in charge of what she does and says and you make the rules, etc... but it's when you take charge of the interaction and/or situation as it's happening....

Don't allow her to get out of control.

And don't allow her to control you.

What is the punishment if she fails to follow your rules?

Her punishment if she fails to control herself, becomes a hassle or is no longer attractive to you, is she loses your attention and attraction.

This is a big punishment if you manage to be attractive to her and come across as charming and respectful. This will not really be much of a punishment if you are unattractive (not physically) or become an asshole.

Now, don't mistake this advice I've given so far as you have to be Mr. Macho man where you must control her and not allow her to get out of line or there's punishment.

That's how an asshole thinks, not an attractive man.

By smothering a girl, it's where you spend all of your time on her and do the OPPOSITE of being in control, where she is given the power and you're at her every whim.

Don't jump into opportunities to meet her places, do things and hang out and don't stay on the phone too long, which is another way to smother her which I'll talk about later.

Of course every other time or once in a while it's fine to meet her places and do things, just not all the time.

By making yourself a challenge, it makes her want you to be around a lot more and you can do that without jumping into opportunities to be with her.

If she asks for you to go to her house, tell her "You probably just want to bring me into your bedroom and take advantage of me, in this case I'm going to have to turn you down on your offer."

See where I'm going?

This is just the opposite of saying "Yes, yes I'll be right over." and yet so much more productive. It gets her to want you to come over 2x as bad.

Playful Teasing Through Words...

This has to do back with what I said about my kindergarten story.

It works, the idea is not to put them down or make them feel bad, but to just point out something or tease a girl about anything and everything (try and avoid physical jokes unless you feel she'll be comfortable with it).

Find anything, her purse, shoes, glasses, what she's doing, how she's doing it, where she's going and make a smart or wise ass comment about it sure to make her laugh.

The intention of your playful teasing is not to tease; keep in mind your intention is to attract her and nothing else. Most guys get offset and decide to do this teasing thing all night and it winds up pissing her off.

Tease her when you have a funny or naughty little comment that comes to mind and don't hold back. I had to re-learn this skill from kindergarten and I'd say it's the best one to have.

All too often guys are afraid and hold back on teasing girls because it could "ruin their chances". It seems men with only the intention to have fun and don't really care much what she thinks of him happen to get the best results.

Don't hold back when you have a funny comment, and don't worry what she'll think. You'll know it worked if she laughs along or if she playfully smacks you on the arm (or even the ass, then you can be sure it's working).

It's often good to approach girls and use the teasing technique.

It's one of my favorite approaches to use when you're kinda lost.

For instance I would say "Now that's weird, I've never seen a purse with handles like that before, it sure is... different." (keep in mind, only say this if her purse really is weird) and she could say "Well yea, actually a lot of girls have a purse like this." and I'll respond "Uh huh, well I've never seen one before, so I'm assuming that's your cover up for not being like the other girls, it's ok if you're different I still accept you for who you are (with this exaggerated smile on my face)."

Conversations similar to this one usually get girls laughing and willing to flirt and tease back which is always fun.

Now when you're teasing a girl and it hasn't gone over too well, usually there's one of three possible reasons for this from my experience which are usually the only cases that ever come up.

- 1) You're joke wasn't funny, or funny enough
- 2) The topic you decided to point out wasn't very interesting (possibly offensive)
- 3) She can't take a joke

Now situation #1, I really can't help you out with, if the joke didn't work out too well it's okay, there's plenty of fish in the sea and plenty more jokes as well. You'll just have to find something funnier next time.

Situation #2 can be avoided, but not with all women.

Once again, I can't help you if the topic you tried wasn't funny, I still get that problem a lot. If you used an offensive line, it's fine, just apologize, learn and move on.

In situation #3 it's best to move on.

I really haven't found a great way to get around a girls mood when she's not in the mood for joking around. If she can't take a joke or seems to be in a bit of a bitchy mood, I'll leave her alone.

Not worth your time.

The best thing to remember about teasing is as long as it's not too offensive, you can find just about anything to make a wise ass comment about and use it.

Remember not to be too worried about what she'll think or if you'll ruin your chances, just have fun.

Playful Teasing Through Actions...

Teasing a girl physically works usually just as well as verbally.

Either way you're portraying the same idea that you're comfortable around her and willing to tease her a little bit which is good.

Now physical teasing with a girl (for me personally), usually will involve just doing little subtle things that when she realizes that you're teasing her can be funny for the both of you.

For example, physical teasing could be...

1) Lightly pushing her as you're walking into things, objects or other people (gotta be careful with other people, make sure nobody gets pissed) which is great to add in "Sorry, she kind of has trouble with her equilibrium. We're working on it though (smile and give her a hug)."

2) Trying to hand her something and not letting go, or pretending to grab something out of her hand and as she's holding it just lightly touch it like you're going to grab it but don't. Easier done, than explained.

3) Poking her in her side, pinching her arm or tickling is great. Even pulling her hair and guiding her around or walking with you pulling on it with her yelling to get off (of course don't get her mad, some girls do, girls who do I consider that a red flag which I'll explain later)

And of course, once back at the ranch, you could even if the timing feels alright....

4) Ask her if she wants to wrestle, arm wrestle or even put on boxing gloves and you could play fight together. Physical activities together will create bonding a lot faster than just talking or conversation if used correctly, and it's a lot of fun for both of you.

You could be surprised, I find a lot of girls who are fully willing to box or play around with you through activities like that.

Keep in mind, try not to take physical teasing too far.

I'll usually avoid touching her unless she's comfortable or already having fun with you (this is usually about a minute after we begin talking in my case, everyone's different though).

Once you guys start laughing or having fun it should be ok at that point for physical teasing.

Keep in mind not to overdo it, I'll keep verbal and physical teasing at the same level about mostly and not favor one.

Understand The Three Keys To Making First Sex Work...

The three most important things you could probably ever know about great sex are that it's about honesty, attention to detail, and a sense of humor.

I don't need to tell you the up-side of sex but there are implications of each of these components that are integral to a successful experience for both of you.

Honesty: There is hardly anything more honest than standing totally naked in front of someone.

After the "trow" has been dropped, you are miles beyond "does my ass look fat in these pants?"

So, take some time to walk yourself through the scenario in your head before you get there so you don't become the dope people point and laugh at when they hear she took off your pants and you turned on the TV.

Before you get the key to the city, you have to prove your worth and probably answer some important, pop quiz questions. A few of them, accompanied by some sample answers (remember we're talking honesty), are as follows:

- Q: "What are we doing?"
A: "Being impulsive, enjoying each other, and agreeing to deal with it later."

- Q: "Did you think it was going to be that easy?"
A: "No. I just thought it was going to be that good."
When this question was posed to me several years ago, I didn't end up having sex with the woman but we fooled around the entire night naked in my bed, which to me was still a fantastic experience. That is until the cable guy showed up early the next morning.
- Q: "Do you have anything?"
A: "Absolutely." Have something. Enough said.

Attention to detail: The saying "Why do girls work so hard on tanning when all the guys care about is the white parts?" is a bit telling.

As I have gained experience, I am convinced it's almost all about all-over foreplay.

If you're hoping that your chosen partner will throw caution to the wind and get jiggy with you, some unrushed foreplay that focuses on a person's whole body and not just the white parts is a great way to get there.

Ask yourself: Have you ever prolonged the warm up so far that she begged you to have sex with her?

If you haven't, I passionately suggest you make that the next milestone in life for you, and anyone you want to become intimate with.

How do you get to the part when people start shedding clothes?

One of my go-to approaches is giving a back rub.

This is an opportunity to demo your sensitive, healing, powerful touch to someone. Relaxation is 50% of positioning yourself to score. There are plenty of ways to become proficient: DVDs, books, etc.

I am sure some of your opposite sex friends wouldn't mind you trying out some of your new massage skills on them.

Many girls are self-conscious about how they look.

Think of how long it takes for them to get ready. For better and worse, they really care a lot about and scrutinize how they look.

Now imagine this person taking off her clothes on stage with you watching. That is the extreme of making being uncomfortable. The other end of the spectrum is a pitch-black bedroom where you lose all the visual pleasure of the beautiful female form.

Meet her in the middle, at least at first, by dimming the lights to a warm, comfortable level. The light from several candles placed near the bed not only creates a romantic, pleasurable ambience, but also gives her the security of not being under the microscope.

There are a number of erogenous locations on a person's body beyond the ones inside the tan lines. Not everyone's the same, but the body language will tell you whether you are pressing the right buttons.

The "wet-willy," sticking your tongue in her ear, is a great example of something that will pull the needle off the record on the wrong person.

My experience is that if you are going to lick someone's ear, that it be gently on the edge coupled with a few soft, warm breaths or whispers about how hot you think he/she is.

The sides of the stomach, the sides and back of the neck, and the small of the back are also key areas for kissing and playful biting during foreplay.

An uncommon, yet effective approach to getting a woman in the mood is a foot message.

Find some Peppermint foot lotion at a store like Body Works and spend about ten minutes on each foot.

Pressure points on the feet, at least what I've experienced, are connected to other more sensitive areas of the fairer sex. This is a very nice way to set yourself apart and that you are committed to taking care of her in more ways than one.

When you are with someone the first time physically or still figuring the person out, don't you think you need to control the situation?
It's a dance, not a liquor store robbery.

Let your partner take the wheel for a while and watch/listen/feel them enjoy the moment in their favorite position and at their speed.

Bookmark based on reaction.

Sense of Humor: In any sexual relationship, some uncomfortable stupidity inevitably presents itself.

Sights, sounds, and general clumsiness are commonplace.

It's not like filming porn that can be edited later.

If you can't laugh at yourself in exposed, compromising situations, you don't deserve to be there. Laughing together at sex follies can bring you closer together than the physical union itself.

Laughter is also a big turn-on for me, and most of the women I have been with. It takes the edge of anxiety off, breaks the ice, and allows you to relax and focus on this warm, intimate dance with each other.
